

NIKKEI SCIENCE is passed along among many people at company and university reference rooms and research departments. Readers are eager to gather cutting-edge information and highly appreciate the timely features and editorial content of the magazine. More than 90% of the readers spend more than two hours carefully reading the magazine and many of them store the copies for future reference.

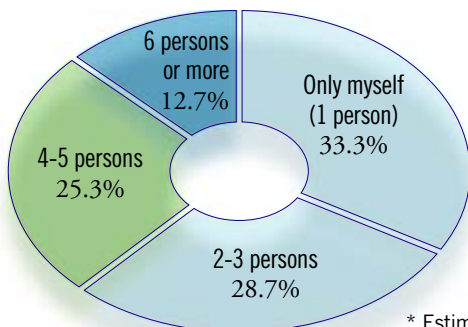

Highly valued for article content and quality

Satisfaction rating of content

High pass-along readership rate

Pass-along readership rate

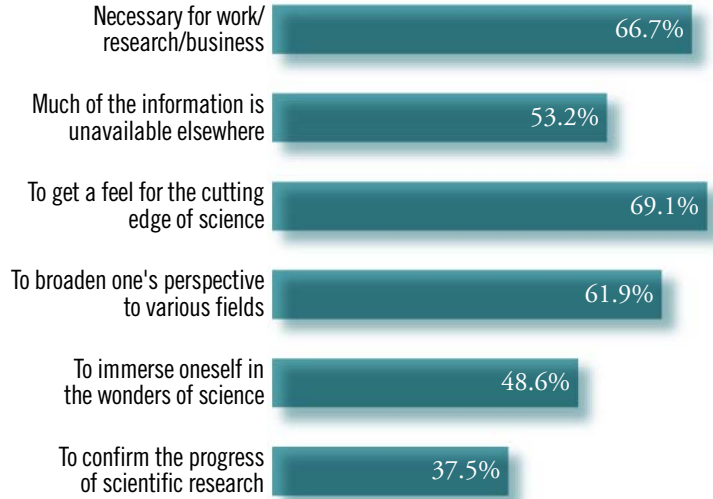

* Estimated number of readers: 118,782

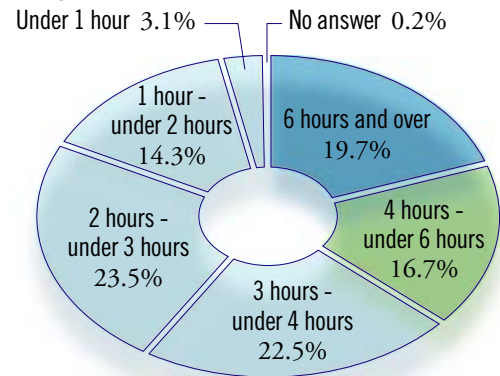

Many people subscribe "to get a feel for the cutting edge of science"

Purpose of subscription

Readers take time to read the magazine thoroughly

Reading time

87.4% of readers save their copies

Rate of copies saved

